CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY

FOR

THE SECOND SESSION

OF

THE FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS

OF THE

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

COMPILED FOR THE USE OF CONGRESS

BY BEN: PERLEY POORE,

CLERK OF PRINTING RECORDS.

FIRST EDITION.

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.
1869.

ENTERED ACCORDING TO ACT OF CONGRESS, IN THE YEAR 1869,

By BEN: PERLEY POORE,

IN THE CLERK'S OFFICE OF THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

This copyright has been secured, by direction of the Joint Committee on Public Printing, to prevent the issue of pirated editions (incorrect or imperfect) for sale. The newspaper press is welcome to copy so much of the Directory as may be desirable, but any one who may republish the work for sale will be liable to prosecution for infringement of the copyright. Copies of this and of subsequent editions can be ordered at the Public Printing Office on payment of the cost of printing.

The next edition will be issued in January next, after the re-numbering of the houses has been completed, and it is hoped that members of Congress will preciously furnish the information necessary to complete the biographical statistics requested, viz:

Name; post office address; place and time of birth; early education; collegiate education, if any, with date of graduating; professional studies; profession or business; all public offices held, with dates; vote on last election to Congress, with the name of opponent and the vote given him. The Joint Committee direct me to suggest that no other information be furnished, and that it is desirable that no gentleman should occupy over ten lines in print.

All gentlemen whose offices have a place in the Directory will please correct their addresses if necessary. The number of a house is preferable to vague directions, and every house in Washington is to receive a number, under a recent city law.

Members of Congress will also add or correct the customary references denoting what ladies of their families will be in Washington. The * designates those whose wives accompany them; the § designates those whose daughters accompany them; the || designates those having other ladies with them.

Senators and Representatives will receive their quotas of this edition, in December, at the folding-rooms of the Senate and of the House.

BEN: PERLEY POORE,
Clerk of Printing Records.

THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol fronts the east, and stands on a plateau ninety feet above the level of the Potomac, in latitude $38^{\circ} 55' 48''$ north and longitude $77^{\circ} 1' 48''$ west from Greenwich.

The southeast corner-stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, aided by the freemasons of Maryland. It was constructed of sandstone from an island in Acquia creek, Virginia, painted white, under the direction of B. S. Hallett, and afterwards of B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811, a wooden passage way connecting them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by British incendiaries, but they were immediately rebuilt. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch, and the original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $1,746,718 33.

The corner-stone of the extensions to the Capitol was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator of the day. Thomas U. Walter was architect, and subsequently Edward Clark, under whose direction the work was completed in November, 1867. The material used for the extensions is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Massachusetts, with white marble columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Maryland.

The dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, but was removed in 1856 to be replaced by the present stupendous structure of cast-iron, which was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,009,200 pounds.

The main building is three hundred and fifty-two feet four inches long in front and one hundred and twenty-one feet six inches deep, with a portico one hundred and sixty feet wide, of twenty-four columns on the east, and a projection of eighty-three feet on the west, embracing a recessed portico of ten coupled columns. The extensions are placed at the north and south ends of the main building, with connecting corridors forty-four feet long by fifty-six feet wide, flanked by columns. Each extension is one hundred and forty-two feet eight inches in front, by two hundred and thirty-eight feet ten inches deep, with porticos of twenty-two columns each on their eastern fronts, and with porticos of ten columns on their ends and on their western fronts. The entire length of the building is seven hundred and fifty-one feet four inches, and the greatest depth, including porticos and steps, is three hundred and twenty-four feet. The area covered by the entire building is one hundred and fifty-three thousand one hundred and twelve square feet.

The dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, modelled by Crawford, which is nineteen feet six inches high, and which weighs 14,985 pounds. The height of the dome above the base-line of the east front is two hundred and eighty-seven feet eleven inches; the height from the top of the balustrade of the building is two hundred and seventeen feet eleven inches; and the greatest diameter at the base of the dome is one hundred and thirty five feet five inches.

The rotunda is ninety-five feet six inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is one hundred and eighty feet three inches.

The Senate chamber is one hundred and twelve feet in length, by eighty-two feet in width, and thirty feet in height. Its galleries will accommodate one thousand persons.

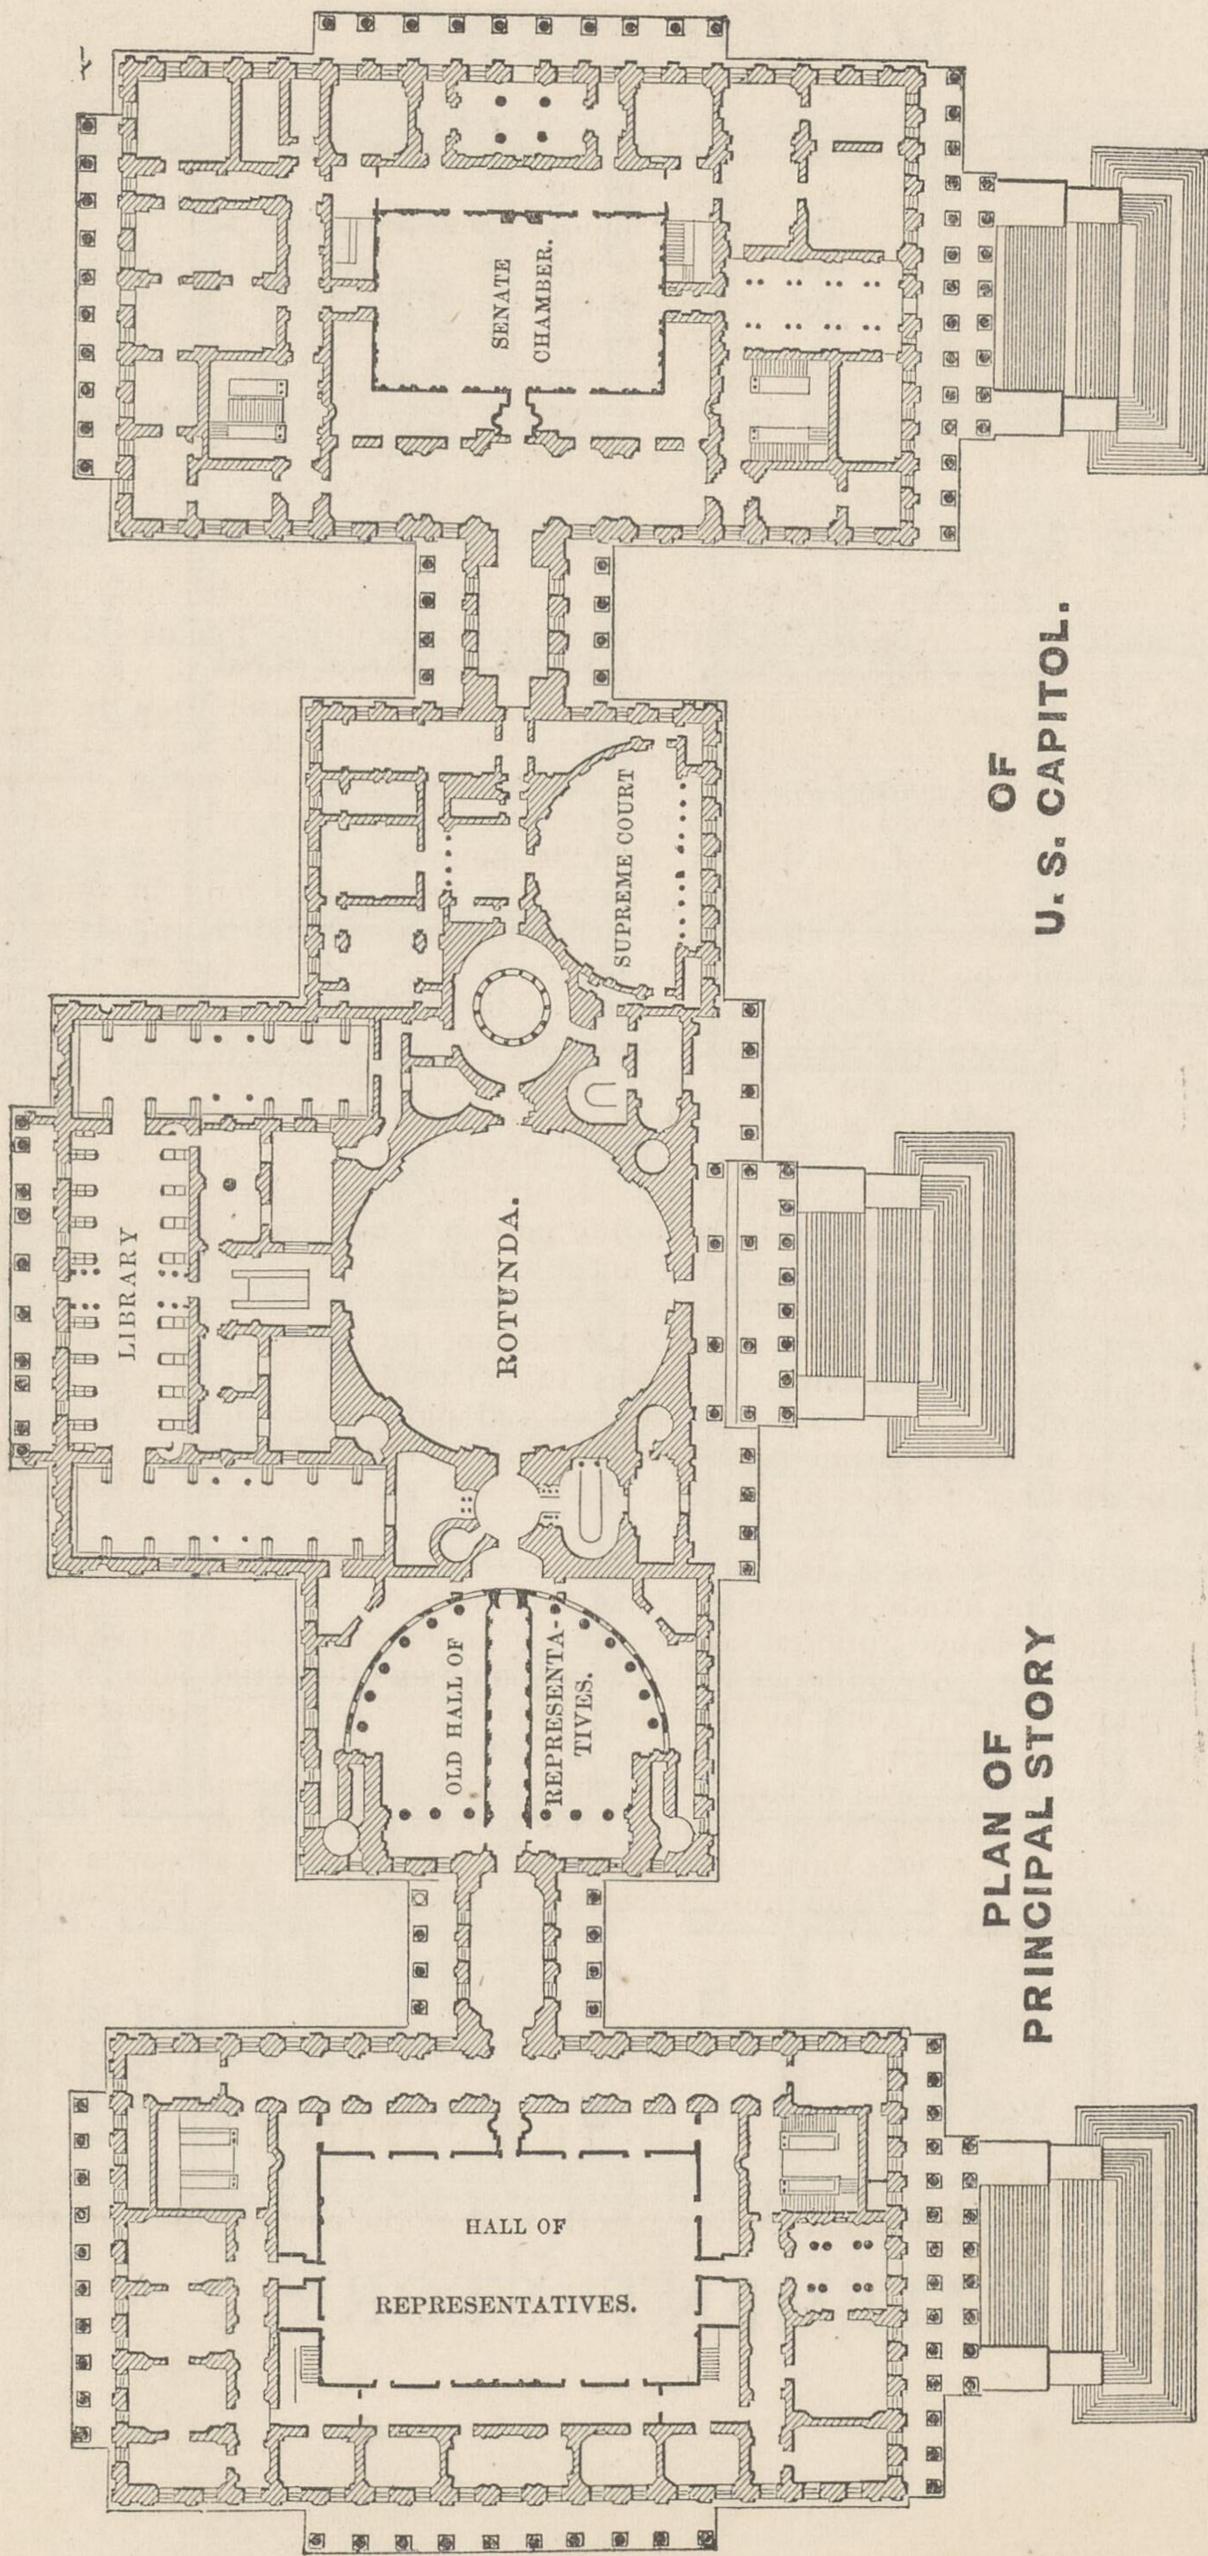

The Representatives' Hall is one hundred and thirty feet in length, by ninety-three feet in width, and thirty feet in height.

The Supreme Court room was occupied by the Senate until December, 1860, the court having previously occupied the room beneath, now used as a law library.

The Library of Congress was burned by the British in 1814, and was partially destroyed by an accidental fire in 1851. The present centre hall was finished in 1853, and the wing halls were finished in 1867.

ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL.

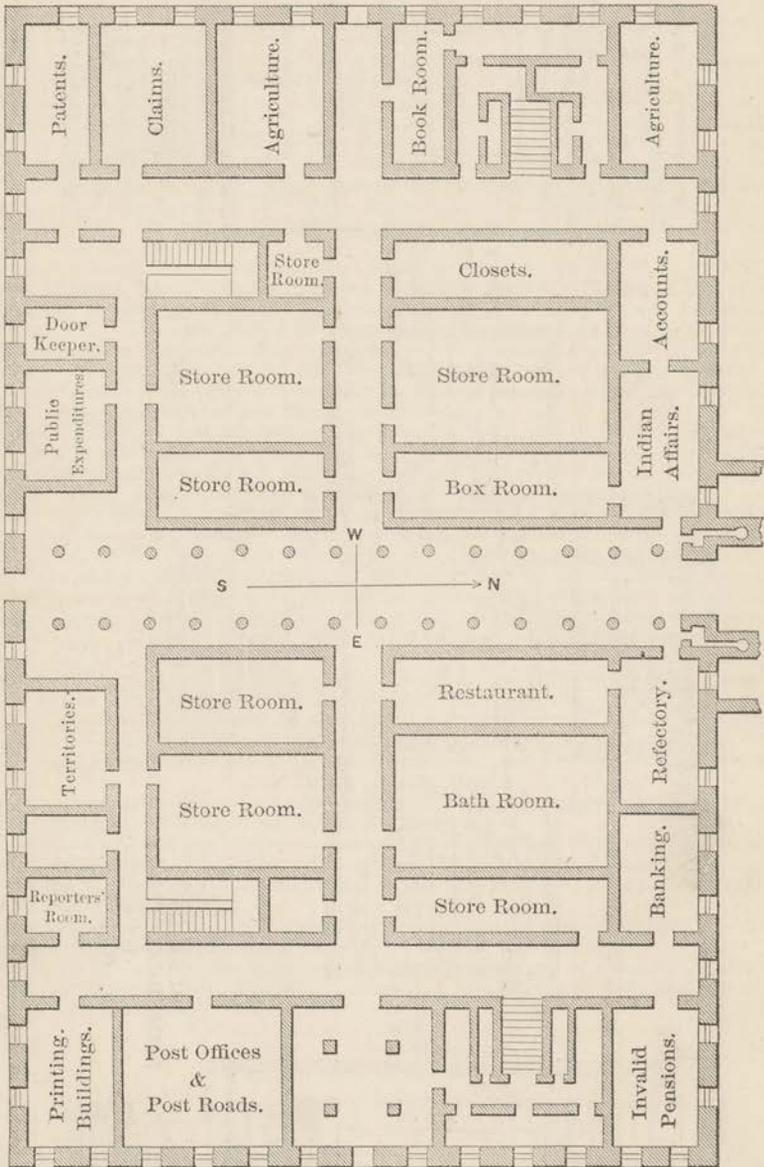

Edward Clark, 398 Fourth street; office directly east of the eastern front of the Capitol.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

Library of Congress.—The Capitol. Open to the public daily throughout the year, Sundays excepted, from nine in the morning to four in the afternoon, and during the sessions of Congress until the hour of adjournment. Books can be taken from the Library by the President of the United States, the Vice-President, Members of Congress, the Supreme Court, the Diplomatic Corps, Ex-Presidents of the United States, the Cabinet, the Court of Claims, the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, the Secretary of the Senate, the Clerk of the House, the Chaplains of Congress, the Solicitor of the Treasury, and the Financial Agent of the Library Committee. Books are only delivered to the above-named persons; if one of them sends an order for a book, he is entitled to it; but if it be an order in favor of another person, or for such other person's use, it cannot be delivered according to law. The Library now numbers about 180,000 volumes, and is especially complete in law, politics, history, and in books and pamphlets relating to America. Being now the largest library in the United States, and the only one which has the benefit of the copyright laws, requiring one copy of each publication for which a copyright is taken out to be deposited in it, the Library of Congress is destined to remain the great national library of the country.

Washington Library.—Eleventh street west, between Pennsylvania avenue and C street north. Open every day from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Young Men's Christian Association Library.—Ninth street, corner of D.

POSTAL RULES.

Many errors occur by persons not observing the following regulations in depositing letters, papers, or miscellaneous publications (not franked) for mailing:

All drop letters must be prepaid by postage stamps.

Prepayment by stamps required on all letters to places within the United States.

Full prepayment by stamps required on all transient printed matter, foreign and domestic.

An impression seems to prevail that letters for Georgetown require only two cents, or local rates of postage. Georgetown being a separate office, full prepayment by three-cent stamp is required.

All matters conveyed by mail westward beyond the western boundary of Kansas, and eastward from the eastern boundary of California, except one newspaper to a bona fide subscriber, and franked matter, must be prepaid at letter rates.

Valuable letters for any part of the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Holland, the Italian States, or States of the German-Austrian Postal Union, will be registered on application at the office.

[Note to Correspondents.—The compiler wishes to prepare, for the next edition of the Directory, a consolidated list of newspaper correspondents, and each one will confer a favor by sending the names of papers which he acknowledges himself the correspondent of, number of seat in the Senate gallery, number of seat in the House gallery, location of news bureau in Washington, or residence, if his paper or papers have no news bureau here, and (if he wishes) names of assistants, with the numbers of their seats in the galleries. As there is no way in which this information can be obtained correctly, except from the correspondents themselves, those who do not furnish it must not complain if their names do not appear in the list.]
